Especially the Bill Giving the Stocks Advance All Along the County Boards More Power.

pon request, made the following statement in regard to the bills passed by the last legislature relating to tax

"By reason of laws enacted at the late session of the legislature, several important changes from the old law are made which will undoubtedly greatly improve the administration of the general property tax in vogue in this state, and do much toward enabling a nearer approach to an equal distribution of the tax burden.

"Senate bill No. 354, which became a law early in the session, corrects a serious defect in the old law by not permitting districts which were too large to be assessed by one deputy assessor within the time required by law to be subdivided into two or more districts and deputy assessors appointed in each of the districts so created. The law makes provision also for the appointment of deputy assessors to fill vacancies, and in many other ways will undoubtedly prove to be a beneficial statute.

"House bill No. 520 is a revision of article twelve of the code of assessment and taxation relating solely to the assessment of real estate. One of the most important features is section four of the bill, which provides how real estate taken into cities shall be assessed. There has been no legislation heretofore upon this subject and matters of assessment of that kind have proceeded haphazard. Under this law real estate taken into a city between the first days of March and May of any year are to be assessed by the proper officer and be subject to the city taxes for that year, but if such real estate is taken into the city after May first the real estate is not to be assessed that year for the purpose of subjecting it to city taxes, but the values placed during the precedthe values placed during the preceding year are to be divided pro rata among the lots or tracts of land so included within the boundaries of the city. This law also provides an important method for handling the real estate assessment whereby it is expected that real estate will be classified and the property values for each class extended, thereby equalizing the assessment of real estate according to its varied characteristics. The law

"Senate bill No. 378 is an important measure and should do much toward equalization of the assessment of lestate. It amends the old law in relation to boards of review. The old law provided for boards to sit every year in each taxing district, but the law was without the necessary provisions to make the work of the boards effective and as a result the work of the boards during the first year of their existence was very unsatisfac-tory, in fact accomplished little, and was therefore a cause of useless expense. The new law provides for boards of review only in real estate assessment years and the work of the boards is confined solely to the equalization of real estate in their respec-tive taxing districts. The boards are to meet in each township and city at the time named in the statute, after having given due and process. The poards are dollars. The purchase was made by a syndicate of Ohio capitalists purely as an investment. having given due and proper notice of the time and place of meeting so that all owners of real estate may appear before the board in relation to their assessment, the owners having been previously notified by postal card from the county assessor of the amount of their real estate assessments respectively. The boards have original and final jurisdiction as to the original and final jurisdiction as to the equalization in their respective districts. Under the old law the county board of equalization had this duty but experience shows that it was seldom discharged. After the work of the boards of review is completed, tax payers may individually appeal to the county board if they have been aggrieved and the county board ha the power to adjust grievances in such cases. The power remains with the county board of equalizing land values among the taxing districts but among the individuals of the ta districts. The county board also is the sole equaliber of personal property both among individuals and among the taxing districts. This is an important statute and is in line with the most advanced thought upon the subject of real estate assessment. It is designed and doubtless will distribute the tax burdens more equally upon the basis of actual value than has ever before

House bill No. 634 is also an important statute. It provides a new plan for the assessment of the interests of companies which own cars not owned by the railroad companies that are operated over the lines of railway in the state. The old law was imperfect, of doubtful interpretation and caused much confusion and dis-pute. Aside from the change in the method of assessment, the taxes which will be levied upon the property of the Pullman Car company will be paid directly into the state treasury. Here-tofore the values assessed against this company have been distributed to the taxing districts through which Pull-man cars are operated, the amounts so falling to any particular taxing dis-trict being almost inconsiderable. The new plan promises to be a great improvement in the assessment of this kind of property."
